

Lindsay Rough - contemporary artist

Much of my work is abstracted from memory and imaginings. Vibrant and colourful still lives and landscapes in a semi-abstract style result. My paintings develop from initial ideas of landscape or objects, and through colour and texture become realisations of an idea of place or subject. The gallery page of this website gives examples of my work, with medium and size. These change as work is sold and new work created. Please email me for prices.

Blea Tarn mixed media 30cm x 90cm

I am constantly entranced by colour, and try to engage the eye with purity of tone and value. I enjoy the quality of the paint itself, particularly when combined with a medium for texture or additional body. The use of other media enhances texture and contrast.

I generally work on canvas, paper or board, and with acrylics, watercolour, mixed media and sometimes oils. Paintings on canvas are normally unframed to hang directly on the wall, while other supports will need to be mounted and framed.

I have work in private collections and have exhibited in London, Hertfordshire and Buckinghamshire. I took part in the Herts Open Studios event in September 2007 and September 2008 and shall be opening my studio again in September 2009 - watch this space for dates. Examples of my work can be seen at www.artybiz.com (search for 'painter, Hertfordshire') and at www.island-of-art.com

My home studio is in Watford, Hertfordshire, and you can visit by appointment. Simply send me an email (lindsayjrough@hotmail.co.uk) and I will contact you. I am a member of Watford Area Arts Forum and Hertfordshire Visual Arts Forum (www.hvaf.org.uk).
