

BARRY SAUNDERS

Photography was originally a way of recording my holidays but has developed into a hobby in its own right.

I was very reluctant to make the change from film to digital but I am glad I did because it has opened up the creative possibilities beyond belief.

I make extensive use of Photoshop to produce unconventional pictures.

One of my other interests is natural history and some of my photography reflects this.

I've been a member of Watford Camera Club since 2000.

I am still primarily a travel photographer but I will tackle most subjects.
